Second Municipal Concert Given By Mrs. Towers

The second municipal concert given Tuesday night at the Rex by Mrs. John T. Towers was attended by a large number of music lovers who enjoyed the excellent program from beginning to end. Mrs. Towers' first number was a piano selection, "Rose Leaves," and it was followed by a group of three Carrie Jacobs Bond songs, beautifully sung. "The Charge of the Uhlans," instrumental, won a hearty encore and Mrs. Towers responded with Handel's Largo. Before singing the "Flower Song" from Faust, Mrs. Towers sketched briefly the story of the famous Gounod opera which was first produced in 1859. Miss Rees of the school faculty then gave a group of recitations. Her first, "Laska," was followed by a humorous selection, "In May," and in order to satisfy the audience, Miss Rees repeated "Teacher's Sparkin'" which delighted so many on a previous occasion. Two old favorites, "Flow Gently, Sweet Afton" and "Come Back to Erin," were then sung by Mrs. Towers followed by "The Bells of St. Mary's" in which Mr. Upshaw added the mandolin accompaniment and which evoked so much applause that "My Heart is Thine" was sung. Rubenstein's Melody in F was the last piano number and the closing selection was Braga's "Angel's Serenade." Mr. Upshaw assisted in this number also and the beautiful melody in which the voice, mandolin and piano blended exquisitely, was a treat to all.

The proceeds of the concert will be used by the school to provide special voice culture for the pupils. Mrs. Towers began the work Monday and will have classes twice a week. It will be a rare advantage for the school children to have this course in music without any expense to the school authorities and none to the community beyond that entailed in attending the concerts. They will be given from time to time and are a treat in themselves and well worth much more than the popular admission price which is asked.

Rousing Meeting of Arctic Brotherhood

There was a largely attended meeting of the Arctic Brotherhood last evening when a class of 11 candidates were initiated into the Camp. Seventeen candidates had been elected to receive the degrees of the order, but owing to six of them being out of town only eleven were initiated. The candidates who were taken over the trail last night were: H. P. McCormack, Nicholas Nussbaumer, George Bidwell, W. W. McLaughlin, Ole Gunderson, Louis Scribner, S. A. Shepard, J. Voss, F. Flagstadt, Louis Lemieux, Ned Lemieux.

At the next meeting there will be six initiations and three reinstatements. This means an increase of 20 members in two meetings.

During the evening Thomas Dalgity, the Arctic chief, was presented with a handsome umbrella and a beautiful myrtle-wood nut bowl.

Mr. and Mrs. George Shakes were hosts at a banquet given at the Wrangell restaurant Saturday to the musicians from Sitka.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Campbell Receive an Exquisite Gift

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Campbell were given a delightful surprise last Thursday when they were presented with a beautiful electric lamp by local Elks. The Elks had celebrated the return of the couple to Wrangell, following their marriage, so thoroughly and enthusiastically that this gift was in the nature of an act of restitution as well as an expression of regard. Mr. Leo McCormack, who is an Elk, and his brother, Harry, were guests at the Campbell home on Thanksgiving Day. Leonard Campbell, also an Elk, had contrived to smuggle the gift into the house and shortly before dinner, with the connivance of Mrs. H. D. Campbell, Mrs. Ernest was kept in the kitchen while the conspirators unpacked the present and placed it upon the dining room table. When she entered the dining room later, she found something had been added to the table decorations and was at first at a loss to know for whom it was intended. She was not kept in doubt long and under the gift was a list of the donors. The lamp is high with a beautiful bronze base, three sockets and a wide neutral tinted globe of exquisite design and workmanship which gives a soft golden glow when lighted.

The Importance of Attending Nursing Classes Is Urged

Miss Holland is somewhat disappointed at the fall-off in attendance of some of the nursing classes this week, especially in the night. The course will be finished by Christmas and as Miss Holland will travel over Alaska for the next two years for the Red Cross, giving home nursing instruction, she is very anxious that her first classes in Wrangell end as successfully as they began and that a large number of women get the certificates. While the course costs only the price of a text book, it is worth many dollars to every woman to know how to care for sickness in the home, and Miss Holland requests that social activities be sacrificed until the course is ended whenever the two conflict.

A Letter From Adj. Carruthers

Dear Wrangell Friends:
After a very pleasant journey by boat and train, we arrived safely at our new home, Vernon, B. C. It seems a nice town of 4000 population with many stores, a good school and several churches. It is situated in the midst of the Okanagan Valley, so famous for its fruit.

The Salvation Army has a good corps here, with a silver band in connection. We were given a hearty welcome on Sunday last, and hope soon to feel at home in this our new field of labor.

While we hope to make new friends here, yet we will never forget our old friends at Wrangell. The kindness you have shown us, while living in your midst, can not easily be forgotten. The send off you gave us when leaving will ever remain as a sweet memory. We only hope that at some future time we may have the privilege of returning to Wrangell for a visit.

Mrs. Carruthers, Grace, Gwenn and myself wish to take this opportunity of again thanking you and wishing every blessing for the future.

Yours faithfully,
W. J. Carruthers,
Adjutant.

Excellent Program at School Wednesday

The primary and intermediate rooms of the public school gave an excellent program Wednesday afternoon, November 24, in commemoration of the 300th anniversary of the landing of the pilgrims. All of the pupils in both rooms took part. One number followed another without any announcement, each one knowing his turn and his part perfectly, the whole making a smooth performance that delighted the large number of parents and friends who were present. There were solos, readings, recitations, drills, choruses and a little play woven around the courtship of Miles Standish in which a spinning wheel made by Chad Wyatt figured prominently. The children were in costume. A real pumpkin and a live kitty that tried hard to shirk his share of responsibility for the success of the recitation in which he figured were other features of interest, and Father Time was there with his scythe and a clock on which four periods of time were marked. As a whole the program showed the thoroughness with which the children had been drilled and their interest in their work.

St. Philip's Church

December 5. The theme of the evening service will be "Twenty-five years a Bishop." What has Bishop Rowe done for Alaska during 25 years?

Sitka Band Gives Enjoyable Concert

The concert given in the Rink Saturday night by the Sitka A. N. B. band was a musical treat that was highly appreciated by all present. Following is the program that was rendered:

MARCH—"Chicago Tribune" Chambers

OVERTURE—"Festal" Hazel

VOCAL SOLO—"Let the Rest of the World Go By" Ball INNOCENT WILLIAMS

CORNET SOLO—Selected A. E. GORDON

VOCAL SOLO—"Anchored" S. C. JACKSON

OVERTURE—"Sincerity" Barnard

VOCAL SOLO—"Vesti la Guibba" Arioso from Pagliacci Leoncavallo

TOMMY LAD WILLIAM L. PAUL

OVERTURE—"Polyphonie" Pette Imitation of a Dumb Violinist A. E. GORDON

Star-Spangled Banner

A. E. GORDON, Director of Band

After the concert the Sitka band gave a free dance. The people of Wrangell are jealous of Sitka in possessing a band which can furnish such excellent music, both for entertainment and for dancing.

Frank Waterbury Is Injured by Accident

Frank Waterbury, who left Wrangell recently to spend the winter outside, suffered a most painful accident at Blaine, Wash. Mr. Waterbury is known to be very fond of apples, and his friends will therefore not be surprised at hearing of his being up an apple tree. Unfortunately, he lost his hold and fell to the ground. His right hand received the full force of the fall. Several bones were broken just above the knuckles and the wrist was also badly injured. The nature of the injury is such that it will be months before the hand is all right again. Mr. Waterbury is now at North Yakima.

School Notes

Everybody is invited to attend the next meeting of the Parent-Teachers association given at the school house Thursday December 9, at 7:30 p.m.

A five dollar prize is offered to the high school students for the best paper on the early history of Wrangell.

Miss Holland took the weight and height of the pupils as a health test. The records were taken on cards and will be sent to the parents for their signature.

There will be a good English program at 1:15 Friday, December 3. A play will be given by the high school and eighth grade students called "The Trial for the Murder of the King's English."

Two spelling matches will be given, one an old fashioned spelling match by the Seventh grade modeled after spelling matches of a hundred years ago. This old fashioned spelling match is being planned by the seventh grade. There will be posters, cartoons and slogans which will be on exhibit. All English work which includes book reviews, compositions, short stories written by the Senior class, letters and a newspaper put out by the Senior class. The English work of the seventh and eighth grades will also be on exhibit. The English exhibit will be open all afternoon in the assembly room.

Every one is most cordially invited to attend the program and exhibit.

James Schelp.

The Post Office Department has authorized an emergency service between Petersburg, Wrangell and Ketchikan from December 1 to March 31. The authorization covers six round trips, Petersburg to Wrangell, and four additional round trips, Petersburg Wrangell-Ketchikan. The six round trips between Wrangell and Petersburg will be made for the purpose of giving Petersburg the benefit of the mail service of the C. P. R. steamers. S. L. Hogue of Petersburg has the contract.

New Radio Operator For Station at Craig

F. A. Thiele arrived from Seattle on the Spokane Saturday. Mr. Thiele will leave tonight for Craig to assume charge of the U. S. Radio station at that place. A. Vaughan who has been temporarily in charge at Craig during the illness of Winfield Wood, will return to his position at Wrangell. The action of the Army in sending Mr. Thiele to Craig at this time would seem to indicate that Mr. Wood is not to be returned to Craig upon his recovery. It is known that the U. S. Signal Corps is short of cable operators at this time, and it is therefore not improbable that Mr. Wood will be transferred from radio to cable service as soon as he is able to work again.

Following the talks on the reservation system by George Haldane of Hydaburg and Peter Simpson Wednesday afternoon, L. F. Paul read a paper by Gen. R. H. Pratt on "The Place and Destiny of the Indian in the Nation's Life."

Mr. Paul told some interesting facts about General Pratt's military activities and his long period of service in connection with the Carlisle Indian school, before reading the paper. He spoke of the general as "the first man to accept the Indian of the United States as an equal human being" with a mind that could be developed, and said much of his activities on behalf of the uplift of the Indian. The paper was listened to with great interest.

Mr. W. L. Paul followed, urging again upon the Brotherhood the need of organization and the importance of men of education to represent the Native in his struggle for fishing rights, land rights and educational advantages, after which

Mr. Henry Stevens addressed the gathering in his native tongue. Mr. Worthington spoke of the small drops which finally make the great ocean and urged co-operation and friendliness so that the ideals for which their organization stands may be realized. Mr. Desmonde asked the men of the convention to combine to select their best men to represent all and then to join hands. He pledged his loyal support in the work before them. A number of suggestions were made for the good of the order by various speakers after which announcements of social activities incidental to the convention were made by the secretary.

Thursday being Thanksgiving Day, no sessions were held. There were services at the Presbyterian Church in the morning. At noon, a dinner was served to the Sitka band and string orchestra, by the Presbyterian Church, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Tamaree acting as hosts.

Following the basket-ball game in the evening, a dance was given at the Rink which was well attended. The music was excellent. The proceeds went to defray the expenses of the Sitka delegation.

On Friday morning, it was decided to send a special delegate to Washington, D. C. to look after the matters of education, land titles and fishing rights. That the cost of sending this representative would be met by the Natives of Southeastern Alaska when the purpose for which he would be sent was fully explained, was believed by all. Later, Wm. Paul was elected for this position.

The subject, "Should the Native be allowed to choose his own school?" which was to have been discussed Friday afternoon was postponed until Friday night owing to the pressure of routine work on the new Guild room which St. Philip's Guild is erecting, having gone as far as the funds on hand will permit, the finishing of the building will be left until later. The addition to the gym was completed and will be used for a stage at Christmas.

Wm. Patterson, agent for the C. P. R., this week received a cablegram announcing Princess sailings for the months of January and February as follows:

From Vancouver north—January 9, 23; February 6, 20.

From Skagway south—January 13, 27; February 10, 24.

Donald Campbell, a well known engineer, arrived on the Spokane Saturday. Mr. Campbell came north at the instance of the Wrangell Pulp and Paper Manufacturing company. Mr. Campbell left on the day of his arrival here in company with W. D. Grant for a visit to some of the holdings of the company. The engineer will make estimates of the amount of power, cost of harnessing, and make a report on the feasibility of the various sites for mills.

KEYS—THEIR USE AND ABUSE

Concerning the Inventions of Locksmiths and the Disadvantages of Being Locked Out.

The key is an acknowledgment of man's depravity. If every man respected his neighbor's goods and privacy, we should not be burdened with carrying keys, in bags or pockets, hunting for them in a panic, and frequently losing or mislaying them. We have the care of a door key, an office key, a trunk key; a safety-box key (if we are coupon-cutters); our locker key, if we are sports, and automobile and garage keys, if we own these luxuries. Keys naturally multiply with our outward prosperity. Diogenes, living in tub, was a happy man, as far as the responsibility of keys went, and although some people might prefer more roomy apartments for a permanency, at least Diogenes wasn't obliged to turn his toga pockets inside out in a vain attempt to locate his key—when returning to the tub after a brief sojourn at the club.

Key-rings, upon which you can concentrate your responsibilities, are sometimes desirable; on the other hand, if lost, the whole bunch must be replaced. I consider the mode of the public bath frequenter, that of wearing the bath-house key on a rubber ring around the neck, preferable to any other method. It absolutely cannot be lost, unless the bather is eaten by a shark.—Esther G. Babson, in Boston Transcript.

GOT MESSAGE FROM LIGHT

Famous Man of Letters Tells of Peculiar Effect Simple Happening Had on Schoolboy.

A friend of mine—an old painter, who went to school in the north of Scotland—described to me his experience. The domine had one morning been particularly drastic in his methods, and this led to great concentration of thought among the pupils, while at the same time it did not in the least alter the usual current of their ideas. My friend, for instance, basted himself as usual, observing form and color, only with a keener zest and, as I have said, a more concentrated purpose. It was a spring morning, and, for the first time that year, a ray of sunshine came into the room, making a square of yellow light on the dusty floor at his feet. It was only at that particular period of the year such a thing was possible; later on there would be too many leaves on the trees, and in winter the sun was not in that quarter of the heavens. My friend was an unhappy and anxious schoolboy, but the events of that morning and the menaces of the domine, combined with the sudden sunlight at his feet, made a new boy of him, and he looked at the square of brightness which stirred his heart. He received, as it were, his mystical message; and some time afterward, leaving school, he became a landscape painter.—John Butler Yeats.

More Than a Sign Post.

There was once a detective story written whose point lay in the manner in which a very familiar figure may escape observation. In the tale several persons swore no one had entered a certain building during a certain space of time. Afterward it was proved that the postman had visited the place at his accustomed time, but long habit had rendered him psychologically invisible to the witnesses.

So it is with the familiar figures upon our streets. How many times a day we may pass by the traffic cop, without perhaps realizing that he is something more than an animated sign post, until some act of courtesy awakens us to the fact that a "cop" is simply a man, and a gentleman at that. For, in spite of the many aggravations that must come during a day of directing traffic, most of these officers retain their good temper, and even go out of their way to assist or direct some passer-by.—Omaha World Herald.

Water for House Plants.

Water is essential to the life of plants, whether they be in the open ground or in pots, for only in the form of solutions in water can the roots suck up the juices of the earth, and it is the water circulating through the channels of the trunk and branches that permits the exchanges between the leaves and the rest of the vegetable.

Plants in a house should not be watered at regular stated intervals; do the plants out-of-doors receive rain on Tuesdays and Saturdays? They should be watered whenever they need it. This is the only safe rule. And we can tell when they need it by feeling the earth in which they are growing; so long as these feels moist the plants do not need water.

"Blarney" Not Out of Place.

Life at best pays back rather limited dividends, and knowing this, we should as we journey along time's thoroughfares, try, whenever the opportunity offers, to bring a smile to tired lips. Even though we must resort to a "bit of blarney" if we would accomplish this happy result, we certainly should do so. Such a course may dispense the person who prides himself on calling a spade a spade every time, but folks who approve of toning down, as it were, the sharp edges of life, will feel no twinges of conscience for playing such a role, for there is all the difference in the world between base flattery and true and merited approval.—Exchange.

Three Lively Basketball Games

Three lively basket-ball games were given in Wrangell last week. On Wednesday night, the American Legion defeated Hydaburg by a score of 37 to 17. On Thursday night, the Legion played again, this time against Sitka Camp, the score being 28 to 25 in favor of the Wrangell boys. It was a close contest and was witnessed by a crowd that filled the hall. The High school played the Grammar school on Friday night and won, 24 to 12, following which the Lazy Five of Wrangell defeated Hydaburg by a score of 51 to 27. All of the games were well attended.

OYSTER RAISING IN HOLLAND

Highly Scientific Methods Employed in That Country Have Been Remarkably Successful.

In the industry represented by oyster cultivation, Holland is the most systematic in its operations and employs more elaborate methods than any other country in the world. The numerous sounds that indent the coast of Holland, particularly in the region of the River Scheldt, afford excellent facilities for the propagation of the oyster and enable the country to conduct the most successful oyster industry in Europe. Public dredging is not permitted, as the result of that system was the threatened exhaustion of the fisheries. and the beds have been carefully surveyed and specific tracts are leased to individuals and companies, who are thus enabled to conduct the propagation of the oyster in a systematic manner that insures the best results from the territory available. Many growers lease several tracts in different localities, and adapted to different purposes which facilitates the various operations, as the oysters can be shifted from one place to another, according to the season and the stage of development. A few of the oystermen plant shells on the banks, as is done in many places in this country, but the largest and most successful propagators are equipped with their own tanks and ponds, located in convenient shallow bays, in which they carry on the culture.

MEASURE HEAT OF STARS

Scientific Instrument Used at Washington Is Sensitive to an Almost Miraculous Degree.

One of the experts employed by the government bureau of standards in Washington has perfected an instrument which measures the heat of a star so far away that it can't be seen with the unaided eye. This same instrument is sensitive enough to be affected by the heat of a candle 100 miles away. "What is the practical value of such labor?" asks Thomas H. Uzzell in Everybody's. "Well, for one thing, these experiments by Doctor Coblenz have made a substantial contribution to the theory and technology of measuring high temperatures which will melt any known substance. Making use of this new knowledge, other bureau men have greatly improved the high-temperature thermometers which are used in the steel industry to measure the temperature of molten steel. One of the biggest improvements in the production of steel in recent years is the result.

Formerly many millions of dollars' worth of steel products depended upon the trained eye of the foreman in estimating the temperature of steel from its color. But these new thermometers don't drink; they don't fall; and their accuracy means vast savings in money, better steel, a decided step forward in America's industrial sovereignty."

On Toads.

"Many stories are extant tending to show that toads have been found alive in rocks or in soil deep in the earth; yet so far as investigated by the writer in no case has the evidence been at all conclusive," says A. H. Kirkland in an article on "The Garden Toad" in Boys' Life. "On the other hand, experiments have shown that toads may be kept alive at least 18 months sealed up in plaster or limestone. There is little doubt that the toad may live to be 20 years old, or more.

"Though it lives alone in summer, toads often hibernate in colonies of half a dozen or more. In feeding, usually by night, the toad patrols a fairly well-defined beat; garden and flower beds are frequented, and particularly the ground under arc lights, where numerous insects fall fluttering from the lamps above. When food is abundant, as shown by experiments on toads in cages, the animal eats an equivalent of four square meals daily, consisting of caterpillars, cut-worms, beetles, ants, etc."

First Clocks Simple Affairs.

The first clocks were simple affairs which showed the hour alone; then followed the addition of the minute hand, and later came clocks which recorded the day of the month, the phases of the moon, and many other pieces of information, generally of a more or less astronomical character. During the sixteenth century, the Italian and German clockmakers, notably those of Nuremberg and Augsburg, made great progress in their art. There are those who claim that one Richard Harris, an Englishman, invented and set up the earliest pendulum clock some time during the first four decades of the seventeenth century; but this story does not appear to be well authenticated, and the honor of introducing the pendulum seems to belong to the Dutchman, Huygens.

Kangaroo Tendons Best Sutures.
The kangaroo, which propels its body over the ground in a series of long leaps or bounds, has a very powerful tail which is of great assistance to the legs in enabling it to leap. A great muscle or group of muscles, each little bundle of them with its own tendons extending to the extremity of the tail, gives power to this important organ. Dr. Henry O. Marcy of Boston discovered that these tendons were the ideal thing to use in sewing up muscles after a surgical operation, as they are not elastic and they do not soften until their work is done, and then they are absorbed by the tissues.

WHERE GREAT MONARCH LIES

Mosque of Bajazet II is One of the Sights of City of Constantinople.

Constantinople has no mosque more attractive to natives and strangers alike than that of Bajazet II. Bajazet, one time sultan of an empire, known as the dreamer, raised this graceful monument and sleeps peacefully in its shelter.

It is not, however, in reverence to the memory of Bajazet that so many Turks sit languidly in the corners of the mosque court. They are here to profit by the visits of strangers in the city, to tempt them with real Turkish tobacco, oriental perfumes, amber and jewelry. In short, they have set up shop in the very shadow of the mosque, and that shadow being insufficient, strips of awnings have been rigged up as further protection from the glaring sun. Whether Bajazet would approve of this seeming disrepect can only be surmised.

Pigeons, too, in distracting numbers, whirling, cooing, always fluttering from one spot to another, save the mosque courtyard from the solemn silence of the thousand and one other temples of Constantinople. Bajazet's approval of the pigeons' presence is recorded from the time when only two frequented his court. By his order they and their successors have been always fed and regarded as sacred.

The feathered inhabitants have become so numerous and so much at home that the mosque has come to be popularly called the "Mosque of Pigeons." Their cooing softens the sound of bargaining from the corners of the court and blends with the splash of the fountain. Could the dreamy Bajazet behold them now, poised on his minarets, walking sedately about his court, and circling like whirling clouds about the columns, he would realize that they are the final touch to the perfection of his temple.

Makes Big Demand on Horses.
The English Derby was run without a break from 1780 until 1914. In 1915 the Epsom stands and course were put to other even more important uses. A substitute Derby which can not count was run at Newmarket in 1915, 1916, 1917 and 1918 on a straight galloping course. The Derby course on Epsom downs is left handed, and consists of two straights and a turn—the historic Tattenham corner. It is often called an unfair course and a rogue's paradise. It may be the latter, but it refers to man rather than to horses. A horse to win the Derby must be possessed of the ability to start off quickly. He needs pace so as to be well placed at Tattenham corner, and he must be able to come down hill turning sharply all the time. And then he must possess stamina to finish that long straight. The horse that wins the Derby must possess all these qualities.

"Island" in the Air.

Three miles south of the Mesa Encanada in Mexico is a splendid specimen of fantastic erosion—an "island" in the air; a rock with overhanging sides nearly 400 feet high, 70 acres in area on the fairly level top, indented with countless bays, notched with dizzy chasms. The greater part of the island overhangs the sea like a huge mushroom, and on the top stands a town which for artistic charm, ethnological interest and romantic history has no known peer. This little town of Acoma is one of the prehistoric Pueblo architecture. It was only with inconceivable labor this island town in the air was built. It was reached by a mere trail of too holes up the stem of the "mushroom." The age of the island is not known, except that it was already old in 1540.

Pertaining to Cork.

Cork is the outer bark of an evergreen oak. It is not the true bark or skin of the tree through which the sap circulates, but a spongy layer of cellular tissue formed outside it. After a few years the outer covering falls off. In Spain and Portugal, the great cork-producing countries, the process is anticipated, for the bark is run out every six or eight years, the trees continuing to yield good crops for 100 to 150 years. Cork for stoppers was used in Cato's time, 210 B. C. "Lighter than cork" is a comparison used by Horace. The peculiar cork stoppers for champagne bottles were invented by a Benedictine monk named Perugua at the abbey of Bantvilliers, about A. D. 1670. The name cork is derived from cortex, the bark of a tree.

The Bells of St. Paul's.

The bells of St. Paul's cathedral, at London, are rung on Sundays, holy days and special occasions by twelve members of the Society of College Youths. To become a member of this society very severe tests have to be passed in campanology. The duty of chiming the bells for the weekday services falls upon one man, who, by passing the ropes through a series of pulleys and bringing them together, is enabled to chime six bells by himself. He chimes the bells for the 8 o'clock service, starting at 7:45 with two bells for ten minutes, then ringing one bell for five minutes. For the 10 o'clock and 4 o'clock services he chimes six bells for ten minutes, then one bell for five minutes.

Protecting White Heron.

Venezuela has passed a rigid ruling for the protection of the white heron, one of her most important sources of revenue. The egret or white heron produces the delicate plumes almost worth their weight in platinum. In the molting season—from July to November—the feathers may be collected. This does away with killing and trapping of the rare birds. Collectors of customs must be certain that the feathers passing through their hands for export have not been pulled from slaughtered or captured herons. The white heron haunts are found beside the waterways and lakes of two Venezuela states—Apure and Bolivar.

Origin of Drinking Pledges.

Pledging each other in wine was in reality nothing more than the survival of the once universal custom of parties drinking together in ratification of a bargain. It is in this sense that some Jewish and Russian couples drink wine at their betrothal ceremonies. The Hebrew, after drinking, dashes the vessel to the ground, in memory of the destruction of the Temple; whereas the Russian tramples the glass beneath his feet, with the pious wish: "May they thus fall under foot and be trodden to pieces who shall endeavor to sow dissension and discord between us."

Father's Taste.

Henry's father always prided himself on his taste in the selection of socks and ties, but it remained for his young son to take the conceit out of him. At a recent sale of neckwear he bought a new tie for the boy. On presenting it there was not as much enthusiasm displayed over the gift as he could have wished. When father left the room Henry turned to his mother and said: "Gee, mom, this tie looks to me like a piece of upholstery."

work, and the fact that Rev. Marsden of Metlakatla and Supt. Hawkesworth of the U. S. Bureau of Education who were scheduled to speak Friday night had not arrived. A number of resolutions were adopted by the convention in regard to an amendment to the constitution of the order concerning the dues for the Grand Camp and assessments against the subordinate camps to meet expenditures approved by the convention. The second was a resolution which the convention had drawn to send to Delegate-elect Dan Sutherland, endorsing his pre-election pledges to work for Territorial control of Alaska fisheries, or, failing in this, to secure the appointment of a committee of seven, three fishermen, three cannery men and one scientist to control and regulate the fishing industry, said committee to be appointed from Washington. The Brotherhood asked that one of the fishermen appointed be a Native and that this organization be allowed to recommend a competent man.

The thanks of the convention for the courteous treatment accorded them were extended to the following Wrangell organizations and individuals: The Sisters and Brothers Society, the Sisterhood, the Presbyterian Church, St. Philip's Church, Wm. Tamaree, Charlie Jones, Chester Worthington, Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Jackson and Mr. and Mrs. George Shakes.

The subject of Friday evening's session was, "Should the Native be Free to Choose His Own School?" The first speaker was W. F. Paul who gave an excellent address. He dwelt on the Indian's tendency to retard his own progress and told of some of his own personal experiences at college. It was his opinion that the prejudice against an Indian does not exist because of his race but because of habits which are peculiar to him. On his visit east he had found no race prejudice but a great amount of pride in Indian blood on the part of people who could lay claim to it. In closing, he dwelt on three means by which the Native can come into his own,—moral integrity, improvement by education and a forgetfulness of the restrictions which have been imposed upon him. He dwelt upon the relation of Christianity to life and the value of organization.

Mr. Corser was the next speaker. He praised the address of Mr. W. L. Paul and the good, hard sense which it contained, and especially its note of hopefulness. He said he was aware of the difficulties under which the Native had labored and the discouragement which, though temporary, is a part of any transition period. While he disclaimed knowledge of the work of the Bureau of Education, he spoke of the various phases of Native life which have a bearing on the educating of their children, such as the necessity for remaining out of school for much of the year and the effect such absence would have upon the work in the white schools. The fact that English is also unknown to many beginners among the Native children and the fact that they get more individual instruction in the Government school was brought out. Mr. Corser expressed the belief that not a white school would refuse to admit a Native who was able to do sixth grade work for by that time, the English language would have been mastered and the Native child would be able to compete with the white child. He urged the value of hard work and stated that, in his belief, it would be six or eight years before the Government school could be dispensed with. In closing, he spoke of his acquaintance with some of the older Natives, principally Chief Kadashan, whom he praised for his intelligence.

Mr. Simpson then told some reminiscences in his inimitable style, beginning with his acquaintance with the father of Wm. and Louis Paul,—his attempt to become a cook and his Sunday School experiences which were very interesting and very entertaining.

L. F. Paul closed the program of speeches with an account of the setting aside of the Indian on a reservation, and how his being given lands, rations, cattle and schools has robbed him of ambition. He declared the Indian schools of Alaska to be as much of a reservation today as any reservation in the States, and said it was wrong to make the Indian accept a free institution like the Government school for which he paid nothing, and in which he could turn to the teacher, even when he wanted to go to the Government hospital. After 400 years of contact with the whites, there is still an Indian problem, he said, and he declared himself in favor of the same treatment for the Native as is given the foreigner, after drawing a comparison between the two.

The attendance at this session was larger than at any previous meeting, interest in the school question and how it would be handled having brought out many of the white people of Wrangell as well as the Natives.

The Alaska Native Brotherhood held its last session of the convention Saturday morning. The Douglas delegation had returned on the Jefferson so the attendance was considerably reduced in number. The main business of the session was the adoption of a platform for the ensuing year. This platform embodies the ideals and ambitions of the Brotherhood in regard to citizenship, schools and the fishing industry. It endorses the great principle of the Declaration of Independence: That all men are created equal; asks that all favors for the Native of Southeastern Alaska be withdrawn and that they be granted the same privilege as other citizens and the same right to attend the public schools that the foreigner has. It endorses the public school system as the only reasonable system, the compulsory education law and the legal school age. In regard to fishing, a special delegate will be sent to Washington, D. C., to represent the Native fishermen. The Brotherhood opposes the present system of fines for violation of fishing laws and suggests remedial laws as endorsed by the convention. Following the adoption of the platform, several speakers were heard. Mr. Simpson advocated publicity for the work of the Brotherhood and missionary work on the part of the various delegates to the end that more of the towns will become identified with the work of the organization. L. F. Paul suggested that when the camps of the order campaign for funds with which to send their special delegate to Washington, D. C., a campaign be made for members also. He then introduced Mr. Wm. Tamaree as a man who had done invaluable work for the Brotherhood both at home and outside Wrangell. Mr. Tamaree spoke in the Native tongue. He compared the work of the organization to the building of a house and of the various members to the housekeeper who can make or mar the usefulness of the building by the way in which the house is kept. He expressed his regret at not having an education. While learning his A B C's he had found it difficult to pronounce F, and, angered at his teacher's insistence that he pronounce it correctly, he had thrown down his book and walked out. He expressed his joy that his sons can carry out a work that is important for his people and hoped that others can be made to feel the importance of it. After a prayer by Mrs. Tamaree and the singing of the Doxology, the convention closed to meet in Douglas next year.

God Gave You Health. Thank Him For It. Go to Church.

OME people never think of God until a loved one is ill or a great trouble besets them. Then they seek the SOLACE OF RELIGION. A clergyman is called in, and prayers are said at the bedside for the loved one's recovery. God is MERCIFUL, and oftentimes these prayers are answered, and the loved one recovers.

IT IS NOT FAIR TO GOD, HOWEVER, TO ASK HIM TO REMEMBER YOU WHEN YOU HAVE FORGOTTEN HIM. WHEN EVERYTHING IS GOING ALONG SMOOTHLY AND THE WORLD LOOKS BRIGHT SOME MEN FORGET THERE IS A GOD. THEY NEVER GO TO CHURCH. WHILE THEY WILL RESPECT THE CHARGE THAT THEY WOULD OPENLY OFFEND GOD, THEY OFFEND HIM DEEPLY BY NOT GOING TO CHURCH. THE SUCCESSFUL MAN SHOULD GO TO CHURCH TO THANK GOD FOR HIS WORLDLY GIFTS. THE SUPREME BEING GAVE HIM ALL HE HAS—LIFE, HEALTH, HAPPINESS—AND HE SHOULD THANK HIM FOR THEM.

Thanks to the GO TO CHURCH movement, there has been a religious awakening over the land. RELIGION NEVER WAS DEAD. All that it required was a stimulus, and that stimulus was provided by the GO TO CHURCH campaign. It should not be necessary to urge men to GO TO CHURCH. There isn't an argument that can be advanced by any man who believes in God in favor of staying away from church. Take away the churches and you will have a condition bordering on anarchy.

The man who GOES TO CHURCH is prepared to MEET ANY CRISIS, moral, physical or financial. His faith in a Supreme Being sustains him in the most severe trials.

JOIN THE GO TO CHURCH THURSDAY NEXT SUNDAY.
